Den franske bestseller "Alt må vige for natten" er Delphine de Vigans romanportræt af sin mor, en ung hustru og uortodoks småbarnsmor, der kæmper med et manisk sind og et stigende alkoholmisbrug.

Den gribende fortælling om moren er samtidig Delphine de Vigans mesterlige afdækning og bearbejdning, på godt og ondt, af en epoke, som ethvert barn af halvfjerdserne vil kunne genkende. Delphine afsøger sin families historie med et sjældent blik for de labyrinter, vi alle bevæger os i - hvor de lyseste øjeblikke ligger side om side med de mørkeste hemmeligheder.

Alt må vige for natten blev tildelt Prix du Roman Fnac og Prix Renaudot des Lycéens og var desuden nomineret til Prix Goncourt. Romanen er solgt til udgivelse i 21 lande, og i Frankrig har den solgt over 500.000 eksemplarer.
