Last man standing. That's the way it feels when Will Stevens looks at the happiness and fulfillment his siblings have found. Will isn't necessarily looking for "happily ever after" but...what if? The one thing that helps him get through the loneliness of bachelorhood is his job. As a paramedic with Rivers Edge Health Center, Will is dedicated to saving lives. But one person has the potential to jeopardize everything he has worked for: his boss.

Carmen Brady is a woman working in a man's world. Determined to be taken as a serious professional, Carmen is hard and ruthless on the job; not interested in being anyone's friend. There's no room for personal relationships in the workplace, and Carmen is unwavering in her pursuit to run a tight ship in the Emergency Department at Rivers Edge Health Center. Yet, as much as she tries, Carmen can't seem to stop thinking about one man she can't have: her employee.

What happens when the line between work and personal is crossed? Can Will and Carmen keep the two worlds separated? Everything comes down to a single choice: love or career?
